F. R. DEMANDS 525 MILLION DEFENSE

Italy Tells Nazis of Parley

By FRANK GERVASI

International News Service Staff Correspondent

ROME, Jan. 12—Solidarity of the Japanese-German-Italian "triangle" was clearly manifested today in a series of diplomatic conversations which took place simultaneously with the "clear-the-air" deliberations between Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Premier Mussolini.

As word circulated that little actual progress had been made in the Anglo-Italian discussions beyond mutual pledges of friendship. It was disclosed that the German and Japanese ambassadors to Rome had called at the Italian foreign office during the last 24 hours.

The German envoy at least was informed fully of the progress and nature of the Chamberlain-Mussolini conversations. A fact interpreted as conclusive proof that no member of the Nazi-Fascist anti-communist bloc is willing to take any major step without consultation with its allies.

NAZI ENVOY CALLED

Chamberlain and Mussolini resumed private deliberations at the Palazzo Venezia after they had witnessed a gigantic gymnastic display in Mussolini forum.

Hans Georg von Mackensen, German ambassador, called upon Foreign Minister Count Ciano at 11:05 a. m. today, while Chamberlain and his British delegation were busily engaged in a round of social activities that culminated in luncheon with King Victor Emmanuel at the Quirinal Palace.

Late last night Toshio Shiratori, newly-accredited Japanese ambassador, called at the Palazzo Venezia for a private talk with Mussolini in the same room where only a short while before Il Duce had received Chamberlain.

This conversation lasted for half an hour and was of a general political nature, the European situation not being touched. The case of Von Mackensen, it was understood, was considerably different.

The German envoy did not see Mussolini himself, but visited Ciano at the latter's own invitation. The Foreign Minister acquainted him with subjects discussed by Mussolini, Chamberlain and British Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax.

He recommended the vast sum of $525,000,000 for the army and navy and for training civilian air pilots. In addition he asked $27,000,000 to establish an "adequate peace garrison" for the Panama Canal Zone.

"Devoid of all hysteria," he told Congress in a message read by clerks in each house, "this program is but the minimum of requirements."

The total request for new funds, not all of which would be spent in one year, would lift the recently-submitted military budget to $1,641,358,000—largest by far of any peace-time outlay.

Urging speedy action by Congress, the President asked a total of $50,000,000 for the army, $55,000,000 for the navy and $10,- 000,000 for training of civilian air pilots.

Most of the money—$300,000,000 of that allotted to the army and $21,000,000 of the navy's allocation—would go to the up-building of America's air fleet.

"LOOKS FACTS IN FACE"

Asserting his recommendations did not "remotely intimate" participation in another war on European soil nor any thought of aggression, the President said:

"Nevertheless, as the executive head of the government, I am compelled to look facts in the face."

"We have a splendid asset in the quality of our manhood. But without modern weapons, and without adequate training, the men, however, splendid the type,

Frankfurter Tells Of Klan, Nazi Aid; Wins First O.K.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Felix Frankfurter's nomination for the Supreme Court was approved today by a Senate judiciary sub-committee.

The nomination now goes to the full judiciary committee for expected action within a few days. The Senate then will pass on it.

Frankfurter, 50, liberal Harvard law professor, was named to succeed the late Benjamin Cardozo.

The committee approval came after Frankfurter had just appeared in person before the Senate sub-committee.

FAVORED KLAN NAZIS

Senator Borah (R.) of Idaho, first of the sub-committee members to leave the executive session, said the vote approving Frankfurter was unanimous. Senator McCarren (D.) of Nevada did not attend the executive session, although he was present earlier in the day and questioned Frankfurter.

The nominee testified that he had supported the rights of Ku Klux Klan members and Nazi sympathizers to enjoy constitutional guarantees of free speech and free assembly.

He outlined his connection with the American Civil Liberties Union and said he consistently had insisted that all should receive equal rights under the Constitution.

Frequently lifting a long forefinger to emphasize a point, Frankfurter said the Union frequently had consulted him on "major issues."

TELLS KLAN SUPPORT

Under questioning by Senator Borah (R.) of Idaho, he continued:

"Some time ago a question arose when members of the Ku Klux Klan attempted to hold a mass meeting and parade in my neighboring city of Boston and the officials sought to stop them."

"I said, of course, they were entitled to the right of free speech and the right of assembly. 'Civil liberties mean liberties for those we like and those we don't like or even detest.'"

The witness, speaking in a low voice into a battery of microphones, said that when the Nazi government rose to power in Germany there was a question whether the AGLU "should give its aid to those professing allegiance to the Nazi regime."

"In several cities Nazi meetings

Saltonstall in Message Urges Wide 'Purge' Plan

In a precedent-setting move, Governor Saltonstall today carried his "purge" program to the Legislature and asked that decks be cleared for reorganization of the entire state administration setup.

The governor, in a special message to the Legislature, recommended that it give study to reorganization plans before the House and Senate prior to approval of the budget.

These plans included provisions of a bill filed earlier, by Representative Charles W. Hedges, Quincy Republican, designed to wipe out all state commissions on April 30, as well as several other bills.

Governor Saltonstall's message was unusual in that it has never been practice for the executive department to recommend conduct or procedure of the Legislature.

"The purpose of this message," it said, "is to facilitate the work of the Legislature in the early months of its session."

"As this is the first biennial session of the General Court, it becomes somewhat experimental as to how best to proceed. I am sure that you will agree with me that a protracted session of the Legislature is inadvisable."

"In my inaugural message, I recommended several studies that necessarily involve much consideration."

"Reorganization of the Unemployment Insurance Commission has already been submitted to you and I am informed that several of your commissions are intending to report further reorganizations of governmental departments."

"In order to facilitate your work on these subjects, I hereby recommend that you give consideration to these studies, and to any reorganizations that may be presented to you prior to the approval of the budget, in such instances as you deem wise."

The document is one of the shortest special messages submitted to the legislature in recent years—while its implications are among the strongest ever presented.

In effect, the governor asks the legislature to do—at once—all its purging of state departments, whether recommended by special commissions or in the form of bills and resolutions, and thus clear the decks before he submits his budget.

When asked by reporters to comment on the message, Governor Saltonstall pointed to the final phrase, "in such instances as you deem wise."

"By that phrase, you see, I left the actions of the Legislature strictly to its own liking," he said. "I do not intend to dictate. I know anything like that used to make me sore when I was on the other side of the fence."

The Governor stated he realized the Legislature would wish answers to questions on reorganization matter that would be of value in considering the budget.

Under the law, the budget must be submitted to the Governor by January 25, or three weeks after convening of the Legislature.

Stork in Moore Legal Drama

BARNSTABLE, Jan. 12—Act three of that stirring domestic drama of love in hospitals, hotels and playhouses—or, was it love?—which might be succinctly titled "He Married Her Because," was enacted here today before Judge Collen Campbell when the marital battle of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Moore was renewed.

Mystery in the Sea In Plane Pontoon

A seaplane pontoon, recovered accidentally from the ocean bottom 63 miles off Cape Cod, today offered a clue which navy and Coast Guard investigators hoped might lead to solution of some tragic mystery of sea and air.

They believed the fragment of wreckage brought into Boston by a fishing vessel was probably from some long-missing plane.

This might have been one of the many that attempted transatlantic crossings, never to be heard from again, or it might have been one that was blown to sea and lost, coast guard officials said.

According to men and officers of the General Sea Foods trawler Saturn, which found the pontoon, the Saturn's nets also caught a heavy and immovable object.

The nets were freed with difficulty and the mysterious object, possibly a sunken plane, was left to be investigated later.

The Saturn's mate, Harold Pico of Chelsea, said he took careful bearings at the spot and could return to it. Besides the pontoon turned over to harbor police here, an aluminum airplane spar was recovered by the Saturn's nets. First Officer Pico said, but this was lost.

The second act curtain came yesterday with Mrs. Marianne Schultz Moore, the ex-nurse who married the theatrical producer, entrepreneur of the Dennis playhouse here, telling from the stand her version of their mishaps.

She met the producer, she said, when she was called to attend him in Hollywood. She nursed him through four months of illness and married him. When she met him, she went on, he weighed 102 pounds, as against 168 now. She denied that she had beat, kicked and abused him, blacked his eyes, or in other ways mistreated him, but admitted that she did scold him in their New York hotel when he came home with a list to starboard. That was last April 1.

She denied that she is addicted to sedatives, but admitted that one day last August when things just got too unbearable, she did take several sleeping capsules. She said she woke up in the Taunton State Hospital.

"He cried," she said, "all the way home and said he would try to make it up in some way."

The quick curtain came with her blushing admission that she is an expectant mother.

During act 1 Moore testified that she did kick, beat and abuse him, blacked his eye, etc., etc., and that "love" in his telegrams to her was just another word.

Whether there will be an act 4 depends on today's proceedings.

'Hugger' Hunt On in Revere

A "Jack-the-Hugger," with a flapping shoe sole and a hockey cap, was being sought by Revere police today.

He allegedly followed a young Revere wife, then threw his arms around her when she ordered him to be off about his business.

She screamed and struggled and he fled.

She described him as about 30 years old, of medium height, and shabbily dressed in dungarees, a zipper jacket and a knitted toque. The sole of his shoe was loose and flapped as he ran, she told police.

Tobin Ill, Fever Up

Dr. Roger T. Doyle, personal physician to Mayor Tobin, announced today that the mayor has a high fever and that he had ordered him to bed for an indefinite period.

All telephone service to the mayor's home, including personal calls, was ordered suspended by Dr. Doyle.

"Mayor Tobin," he said, "is suffering from an attack of bronchitis, aggravated by overwork."

JANET GAYNOR

Janet Gaynor On Way to Wed

Special to The Boston Evening American

NEW YORK, Jan. 12—Janet Gaynor, Hollywood's own "Cinderella Girl," is speeding to New York, as fast as stream-liners can bring her; and, on her arrival here, she will be met by Gilbert Adrian, top designer of the films, for a hasty marriage and a leisurely honeymoon in Florida.

Adrian, designer of such glamorous wardrobes as those which have adorned Greta Garbo, Joan Crawford and Norma Shearer, is already here, waiting impatiently for her arrival.

Traveling with her is her mother, Mrs. Laura Gaynor, her inseparable companion. Janet has been many times reported engaged to wed since she divorced Lydell Peck, screenwriter, in the spring of 1934, but this time all the sages of screenland are convinced that she has at last made up her mind.

She has been seen repeatedly in the company of the young stylist of late, and, last October, characterized reports of their engagement as "premature." Her friends are convinced now that the romance has matured, and is about to blossom with orange blossoms.

It also disposes of reports connecting her with Richard Carlson, young Boston actor, with whom she also was seen. Prior to all of these new romances, Charles Farrell, often her co-star, the Onset, Mass. youth who is now staging a film comeback, was most frequently linked with her.

Hint Italy Hides Death Of Princess

ROME, Jan. 12 (AP)—Authorities at the royal palace today informed diplomats making inquiries that Princess Mafalda, second daughter of King Vittorio Emanuele and Queen Elena who is critically ill of pneumonia, was better.

Nevertheless, her illness and unconfirmed rumors of her death cast a cloud over Italy's official entertainment of British Premier Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax.

At a palace luncheon, which the queen did not attend, Chamberlain expressed his sympathy to the king. Members of the party said he was sure the princess was doing as well as could be expected.

Rome newspapers sought to reassure the public and warned against "exaggerated reports." One said the illness was "following its normal course without alarming symptoms."

Princess Mafalda, wife of Prince Philip of Hesse, is ill at her apartment at the Villa Savoy. Friends said privately she was dangerously ill of double pneumonia.

Owing to Princess Mafalda's illness the royal family announced postponement of the wedding of Princess Maria to Prince Louis of Bourbon-Parma, scheduled for Sunday.

Divorce For Hedy's Reggie?

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 12 (INS)—

With most of Hollywood unaware that he had a wife, it was revealed today that Reginald Gardiner, English actor and reported No. 1 boy friend of Actress Hedy Lamarr, is being divorced in London.

Gardiner said the case has been dragging in London courts for most of the five years he has been separated from Wyn Richmond, British actress.

He denied planning to marry Miss Lamarr.

"She and I are very good friends," he said, "but there is no prospect of matrimony."

MAX SCHMELING
Ph-f-fits with Hitler

LONDON, Jan. 12 (INS)—The Daily Herald today reported that Max Schmeling, former world heavyweight champion, is reported "in trouble with the Nazi authorities."

Schmeling, according to the newspaper, visited the propaganda ministry Monday and was questioned at length. He left after the questioning, accompanied by an unnamed ministry official, and visited several other offices of the Nazi party, at each of which he is believed to have been interrogated again.

The Oslo newspaper, Aftenposten, reported that Schmeling's beautiful actress wife, Anny, has been arrested for alleged breach of the Nazi currency regulations. Inquiries in Berlin proved this report untrue, the Herald stated.

Max Denies Having

BERLIN, Jan. 12 (AP)—Max
Schmeling declared today at his country estate in Pomerania, where he and his movie actress wife have settled, that he is planning to go back to the fight wars.

The former heavyweight champion said he expects to start on the comeback "trail" next spring. No date has been set nor any opponent named, however.

Schmeling vehemently denied today that either he or his wife,
Anny Ondra, was in any trouble with the German authorities.

House Tackles Huge WPA Slash

G. O. P. Flays Scandal; Bitter Fight Over Bill

By ROBERT HUMPHREYS

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Demanding that WPA purge its rolls of "malingerers," the House appropriations committee today formally approved a $150,000,000 slash in President Roosevelt's $875,000,000 emergency relief request and despatched the reduced appropriation bill to the House floor for immediate action.

Simultaneously, the Republican members of the committee filed a minority report charging "acknowledged abuses and corruption" in the administration of relief constitute a "national scandal" that requires an immediate investigation.

The committee also approved a legislative rider aimed at blocking President Roosevelt's announced intention of placing 32,300 WPA administrative officials under civil service. The committee declared it believed such a step would be "unwise."

WOULD PURGE ROLLS

The majority report took this position:

"The committee believes that the Works Progress Administration rolls should be purged of malingerers and many others who manage to remain on the rolls continuously. Testimony is that about 10 per cent of those now on the roll have been there since the inception of the Works Progress Administration. This would serve both to effect a reduction and to make room for others eligible to be provided with work."

"The committee believes that if the Works Progress Administration would make a thorough canvass of persons carried on its rolls, there would be disclosed many thousands neither rightfully nor justifiably thereon."

In approving the appropriation at the reduced figure of $725,000,000, the committee declared that it did so in the belief the rolls should be reduced at the rate of 200,000 a month for the next five months so that by July 1 the total number on WPA would approximate 2,000,000. Last available figure for those on WPA was 3,077,000 as of December 31, 1938.

CITES F. D. SPEECHES

The $875,000,000 estimate submitted by Mr. Roosevelt, the committee observed, "provides a continued degree of unemployment out of harmony with general recovery indications. The report cited several of Mr. Roosevelt's own speeches which pointed to extensive recovery and to the prediction of the new WPA administration. Col. F. C. Harrington, made before the committee in secret hearings, that 1,500,000 persons probably will be reemployed in the next six months by private industry."

House administration leaders, dissatisfied with the committee's action, marshalled their forces in an effort to wage a floor fight to restore the cut. Debate was begun immediately with the House convening an hour early to speed action. A vote on final passage is scheduled for late tomorrow.

The Republican minority report vigorously denounced what it termed "the scandalous use for political purposes of money appropriated for those in need." It flatly accused WPA with fostering "subversion of the accident. The money was government itself."

Coster Diaries Show $150,000 In Blackmail

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP).—The diaries of F. Donald Coster-Musica disclosed today that the masquerading head of McKesson & Robbins drug firm paid approximately $150,000 to blackmailers who knew of his criminal past, prior to his suicide last month.

Investigators said the total was definitely established after an examination of the diaries, which contained ledger-like entries, and of his private papers.

The diaries were said, too, to have disclosed the identity of the so-called "Donald Coster, Jr.," who rented office space in Montreal, supposedly at the behest of Coster-Musica.

Investigators indicated the mystery man had used the name only to engage office space and that he was not a member of the Musica family, nor in any way related to the Musica brothers.

Assistant U. S. Attorney John W. Knox continued his examination of witnesses today and questioned a New York lawyer whose identity was not disclosed.

The lawyer was said to have informed federal agents shortly after the McKesson & Robbins reorganization petition was filed that he was aware of the identity of Coster-Musica.

BATH, N. Y., Jan. 12 (AP).—John M. Kantor, 60, of Montreal, questioned by federal authorities in the investigation of McKesson & Robbins, Inc., was released from jail here today when his attorney, M. H. Cahill, posted a bail bond of $2000.

Kantor is under indictment for second degree grand larceny, charged with complicity in a fraudulent stock deal three years ago.

Bean in Ear Causes Boy More Woe

For a 10-year-old, Dwight F. Maxwell, Jr., of Langdon street, Roxbury, has become acquainted with many doctors—but all the hard way.

Young Maxwell is in City Hospital today, where doctors are attempting to extract a white pea-bean from his ear without an operation.

When he was only four, Dwight was saved from drowning. A year later he was struck by an automobile and taken to the hospital with a fractured arm.

Three years elapsed before he fell from a tree, fracturing an arm. And last year he stepped on a broken bottle at L street and again was a hospital patient.

Dwight got the bean in his ear and while trying to dislodge the object pushed it in farther. So it was the hospital again.

He is one of eight children, with none of the others seeming to have his penchant for misfortune.

Legislators Ride Free in Taxicabs

Those Massachusetts residents for whom taxicab riding is a luxury learned today that certain of the legislators they have elected ride about free of charge in Checker Cabs.

This was the admission of Frank Sawyer, president of the Checker company, while appearing at a hearing on the taxi referendum before the Boston city council committee on public safety.

Asked by Councillor Robert G. Wilson, Jr., if it weren't true that certain legislators had free passes books for Checker cabs, Sawyer replied:

"Yes, that's true, what of it?"

Sawyer then was asked if any of the city council had such passes. "Not that I have given them," Sawyer answered.

It was later pointed out that bills affecting the Checker company have been before the legislature for years. Last year the legislature defeated the proposed law to abolish private and special stands which was passed by voters in the November election.

Kills Mother Of 3, Then Self

BRACKENRIDGE, Pa., Jan. 12 (AP).—A 29-year-old aviator shot and killed the attractive 21-year-old mother of three and then himself today. Police Chief John Rieger reported.

Rieger found Mrs. Virginia Grace Lydic, and Anthony Camille dead in a rooming house. Mrs. Lydic, clad only in a slip, was on a bed. Rieger said, and Camille's body, clad in underwear, was in a kneeling position beside the bed. Rieger said Camille had a pistol in his hand.

The chief said Camille, the father of a child, was divorced and that Mrs. Lydic was separated from her husband whom she married while in high school.

Gull-Crashed Truck Demolished by Train

"G-U-L-L" spelled trouble today for Peter D. Cantwell, Roslindale truck driver.

Confused, he said, when a swooping sea gull crashed through his windshield, he stalled his truck on Boston & Maine tracks in Main street, Reading.

As he leaped for his life, the railroad's crack Halifax-Boston express, "The Gull," struck his truck, completely demolishing it and scattering his load of vegetables over the surrounding landscape.

Cantwell escaped injury.

Another near victim who had a narrow escape was the crossing tender, Henry Libbey.

He was unhurt, although flying debris partly wrecked his shack. He was sitting in it, ready to operate the automatic gates.

The train was delayed half an hour and traffic on the Boston-Lawrence highway was temporarily tied up.

Now That She Sees, Ah, That Mustache!

FITCHBURG, Jan. 12—It's all very strange, of course—the stream-lined cars, talking movies, neon signs, the funny hats women are wearing—but the thing that Mrs. Louise Madon, 65, can't get over is the mustache her husband grew during her 22-years of blindness.

She remembers the war headlines, and has a pretty fair recollection of what Tom Mooney looked like before they locked him up in a death cell for the Preparedness Day bomb murders in San Francisco. She remembers Verdun, and the re-election of President Wilson to "keep us out of war," but still the thing she smiles over is that mustache.

True, she is seeing one of her babies now for the first time, Gloria, born six years after she lost her eyes . . . but the face she remembers best is the smooth, kind face of the man she married, father of her ten children, faithful Octave, who wouldn't give up hope and who cured her at last . . . And now, it's too, too much . . . Ah, that mustache.

But she loves it, every hair of it, and she loves all of the bright new world so miraculously given back to her.

"See, I can read even," she says—and reads to prove it.

"It is like a new life. Ah, and that Gloria, she is so beautiful.

. . . All these years I have wondered what she looked like. . . Old friends are coming around now so she can see what they look like, too, and the Madon home is gay with excited voices, happy people. It's all very wonderful, indeed, and Mrs. Madon is almost a girl again.

One eye went out when one of her ten babies was born, glaucoma finished the other. An operation ten years ago failed, but Octave, a retired mill-worker, wouldn't give up. Later he took her to new eye doctors, and then to the Massachusetts General Hospital where two operations cleared both eyes partly, and one almost completely. She must wear special, powerful glasses, however, but Mrs. Madon is mind, Ah, but that mustache. . .

ELMER LEDUC
He Killed for $13

Slayer to Be Extradited

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 12—Extradition papers were prepared here today for 19-year-old Elmer Leduc, small-time thief, who confessed at Swainsboro, Ga., to the murder here of his grandmother, Mrs. Anna Baker, 72.

The murder netted him $13 in cash and a gold watch, which was pawned in New York, according to the youth's voluntary confession to police in the South.

Tired and hungry, he walked into a fire station and blurted out his story. The same tale later was repeated to incredulous police, who laughed at the story until they had telephoned Providence authorities. Mrs. Baker was slain with a milk bottle a week ago after she had sent $6 to aid her grandson to return from New York for the New Year holidays.

"I can't believe it," his mother, Mrs. Louis Leduc, said at her home on Cumberland street, Woonsocket.

"Elmer was her favorite grandson. She always was giving him money and doing things for him she never did for the rest of her grandchildren."

A year ago young Leduc was given a deferred sentence on a charge of larceny here after he declared he would go out to Iowa and begin a new life with relatives.

Flier Killed, 5 Lost in Fog

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 12 (INS)—Dense fog that forced down four airplanes today shrouded the fate of three other ships with five occupants, homeward bound from the all-American air races at Miami.

One person was fatally injured in the crashes reported so far, and several others were injured seriously.

The men killed was Harold L. Knowlton, 30, of Westfield, N. Y. James E. McGulgan, 35, a flying instructor at Northeast, Pa., who was piloting the plane in which Knowlton was a passenger, suffered severe cuts and bruises.

Occupants of the three missing planes are all Canadians.

Charges Hubby Had 100 in His 'Harem'

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 12 (INS)—Not one, but a hundred other women figured in the life of her husband, according to Billie McDonald, pretty film extra, who today held an interlocutory decree of divorce.

She was granted the divorce from William Z. McDonald, tax expert, whom she married in 1930, and who, she alleged, "boasted of associating with a hundred women."

TRAIN WRECK KILLS 7

CALCUTTA, India, Jan. 12 (AP)—Seven persons were killed and 49 injured today when an express train was derailed 210 miles from Calcutta.

Schwab's Wife Taken by Death In New York

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—Mrs. Charles M. Schwab, wife of the steel magnate and philanthropist, died today in her Manhattan home. Mrs. Schwab, who was in her late 70's, had been in ill health for some time.

She was the former Emma Durana Dinkley of Loretto, Penn., and was married to Schwab in 1883.

Schwab, modest in his success, often credited his wife when he was praised for some accomplishment.

At one time he was offered $500,000 for a half-interest in the Bethlehem Steel Company. Discussing the proposal with his wife, whom he always took into his confidence, he said:

"That is a big sum. Half of what I have is yours. What shall we do? If we sell your share invested at 5 per cent it will bring you an income of more than $100,000 a month for the rest of your life."

"We wouldn't sell for five times that much," Mrs. Schwab replied. "What would I do with the money, and what would you do without your work?"

The offer was declined. Mrs. Schwab, who was 75, suffered a heart attack Christmas Day, after death brought to an end a happy union which started with her marriage 55 years ago in a small Pennsylvania town where Schwab, then an obscure workman, was employed in one of Andrew Carnegie's steel mills.

Mother's Plea Frees
Bandit

Freed of an armed robbery charge through the combination of his mother's plea, his act in returning half his loot to his victim, and his youth, David Padden, 17, was back home in South Boston today—for a new start in life.

Young Padden, after pleading guilty in superior court at Portland, Me., to armed robbery, was given another chance by Judge Herbert T. Powers.

It was brought out in the unusual case that after robbing Emanuel Sackley, Portland storekeeper, of $8 with a toy gun, the youth returned $3 of the loot on Sackley's plea that he was poor.

A few days after the holdup, the youth gave himself up to Portland police, saying he had stolen to get food and lodging and his conscience was bothering him.

When she heard of her son's plight, Mrs. Dorothy Padden of Douglas street, South Boston, hastened to Portland.

There she pleaded for the boy, describing how he had left school to work and how she scrubs floor in a Boston bank to help support the family. She wept when she said a job awaited him in Boston.

"Dave always gave every cent to me," the mother said today at her home. "Then his father, from whom I had been separated, came to live with us. He upset the boy and that is why he left home and did this thing."

"But his father and I have separated again. Now I have a job for Dave, running an elevator."

Lynch, alleged driver of one of two automobiles involved in the collision, was held in $1500 bonds pending a hearing January 26. Snyder and Mrs. Bell were occupants of the other car.

BENNINGTON, Vt., Jan. 12 (AP)—Signs of spring—a flock of geese reported flying north. The huge flock was observed flying over Mt. Anthony and brought from Harry Kidlon, an expert on the habits of geese, the statement it was the earliest he had ever heard of the birds returning from the south.

Canadian and New England geese, Kidlon explained, winter in the Carolinas, where the feeding is good, and they usually don't return until February or later.

Her, She Says

SALEM, Jan. 12—Divorce, on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment, was sought today by Mrs. Margaret Hewart, of Marblehead.

Mrs. Hewart told Judge Costello in probate court that her husband, Harold, of Burlington, Vt., once threw her to the floor, then flung her into the street while visiting her uncle at North Adams.

Another time, she testified, he knocked her down, gave her $2 and disappeared for two weeks. The case was taken under advisement.

Bar Santa in Ads

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 12 (AP)—The rollicking figure of Santa Claus would be barred from use in commercial advertisements by a bill introduced in the California Senate today.

"Santa Claus primarily belongs to the children," declared Senator Harry C. Westover of Santa Ana, author of the measure, "but commercial artists have used his figure to such an extent that he is depicted as indulging in bottled beer to automobiles."

ROUTED by smoke that filled her apartment, Mrs. K. Wolfson of Vinal street, Brighton, snatched her son, Murray, 4, from his bed and carried him to safety early today. Germans Warn Dutch on Shots

BERLIN, Jan. 12 (AP)—The semi-official mouthpiece of the German foreign office warned The Netherlands today that alleged shots at German officials' homes in Amsterdam and The Hague might "severely affect" her "otherwise carefully guarded neutrality."

Angrily charging Jews with having fired at Nazi buildings in the Netherlands, Germany earlier had warned that Jews in Germany would be made to suffer if the reported incidents continued.

Deutsche Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz, which speaks semi-officially for their foreign office, warned The Netherlands she would "have to consider earnestly whether her present liberal attitude and indulgence toward destructive Jewish influence can still be tolerated if, as just has been the case, it leads to endangering of accredited German representatives."

Both the press and the propaganda ministry blamed Jews for shots allegedly fired on the private dwelling of a German consular official at Amsterdam and at the office of the German legation secretary at the Hague.

(The German minister to the Netherlands called the incident to the attention of the Dutch foreign minister in Amsterdam yesterday and a thorough investigation was promised.)

Nazi newspapers let loose a scathing blast against international Jewry.

Chancellor Hitler's own newspaper, Völkischer Beobachter, said that, fortunately no one was hurt, but that no doubt the bullets were fired with murderous intent and that "the fact they were fired from ambush shows only too clearly that Jews are at the bottom of the affair."

"Shots fired at German diplomatic representatives are directed against the whole German people which is desirous of living in peace and amity with Holland," the paper added.

Troublesome Hacking Cough

Buckley's Mixture Quickly Loosens Things Up

The help and relief that he got from a "Buckley's Mixture" of almost thirty years' standing is regarded by his friends and neighbors as remarkable. Read what Mr. John Giff of Barina says:

"From the time that I was a small boy until the age of thirty-two I was seemingly never free from a troublesome hacking cough. I was told that I was suffering from a form of bronchitis—that there was no really permanent relief. One day I saw an advertisement for 'Buckley's Mixture.' The word 'bronchitis' arrested my attention. I purchased a bottle. It gave me relief. I bought two more and my cough seems to have left me completely. That happened six years ago. That old troublesome cough has never returned."

"Buckley's Mixture" will help you fight that choking, strangling torture of Bronchitis. It acts like a flash on coughs and colds. So get a bottle today. Buckley's—by far the largest selling cough medicine in all Canada—is sold by druggists everywhere and satisfaction guaranteed.

Woburn Again Opens Schools

With mixed feelings, Woburn youngsters went back to school today after being locked out two days because of the economic battle between Mayor William E. Kane and his school committee.

Some of the youngsters were happy in the thought that only these two days would have to be made up.

But the others, living in the present and letting the future take care of itself, reckoned they'd just as soon have had a longer vacation.

The schools were re-opened under an opinion by City Solicitor Joseph Corrao that the school department could legally expend about $21,000 in January—or one-twelfth the total expenditure for all of 1938.

KANE SEEKS FUNDS

As the pupils resumed their classroom seats, Mayor Kane said he would present the school department budget to the city council tonight and ask for an emergency appropriation sufficient to take care of the schools for this month, pending passage of the budget.

In dashing manner, the fiery mayor brought about reopening of the schools by complete reversal of the 9 to 6 vote by which the school committee closed the school house doors.

After summoning the board by telephone, Mayor Kane gave them a legal opinion, then offered his premise on the matter of funds and called for their vote. It was all just about as quick as that.

Woburn's biggest dilemma right now is the municipal budget, so the mayor next started in right there.

First of all, he sent out notices to members of the city council to meet at 8:30 tonight.

Then he shut himself up in his office with the determination to get together the entire budget within a space of a few hours.

ELEANORE WHITNEY
Stage Loses Her

Dancing Star Quits Career

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 (INS)—Eleanor Whitney, 21, one of the brightest film starlets, made her final appearance on stage or screen today.

She is to be married tomorrow in New York to Frederick Backer, 30, an assistant district attorney there. Busy completing her trousseau between stage appearances in Chicago, Miss Whitney said she would not give up the dancing through which she gained movie prominence.

"I want to teach some youngsters how to dance and only hope I can help one to a dancing career," she said.

Franco Troops Sweep to Sea

HENDAYE, France (At the Spanish Frontier), Jan. 12 (AP)—Spanish insurgent forces, already in sight of the Mediterranean, gathered momentum today in their downhill drive toward Tarragona, threatening to isolate government troops to the south.

Generalissimo Franco's men were reported advancing southward from Montblanch, gateway to Tarragona, which fell into insurgent hands late yesterday after a combined drive by four supporting columns had swept aside government resistance. Insurgent commanders also reported today capture of the town of Guardia de Prats, northeast of Montblanch.

Insurgent dispatches said that hundreds of residents prayed in ancient battle-scarred churches and others paraded singing in the streets and plazas to celebrate Spanish occupation of Montblanch.

Young Gun Thief Seized With Loot

Alleged to have done a thriving business stealing guns and selling them to an unsuspecting clientele, including officers of the Massachusetts National Guard, a West End youth was seized today.

Police held him for questioning, after raiding officers had found what they described as a small arsenal in his Anderson street apartment.

The 21-year-old suspect admitted breaking into a Federal street sporting goods store on three successive occasions, police said.

He allegedly told of peddling stolen pistols and revolvers on an extensive scale, getting cash when he could but accepting time-payments from buyers who were short of ready money.

According to police, he said he was an enlisted man in the National Guard, had a locker at a Boston armory and enjoyed a reputation as an amateur ballistics expert.

Posing as a gun collector, he sold weapons to many of his National Guard associates, including several high ranking officers, he allegedly confessed.

Police said he told them he kept his stolen arsenal replenished by a series of bold burglaries in downtown Boston.

He broke into Bob Smith's gun store, in Federal street, three times, he admitted, according to his questioners.

In each instance, he smashed his way through a rear window, took as much loot as he could carry, then walked through a nearby building and came out on the street with his coat on his arm, as if he were an employee, he allegedly said.

The youth's capture today came after police had set a trap for him at North Station, where they said he stored some of his loot in a public locker.

When he retrieved the stolen goods, he was trailed to his home, arresting officers said.

After he had told his story, more than $1000 worth of sporting goods, including 22 guns, knives, binoculars, clothing, ammunition and telescopic rifle sights, all stolen, were recovered, according to police.

They said the accused youth told them his gun-peddling had netted him only about $100 in cash, so far, but he had a considerably larger sum due in time-payments. He allegedly said he embarked on his crime venture because he was out of a job and needed money to entertain "girl friends."

Reynolds Urges America 'Mind Own Business'

The following is a translation of the speech made by Senator Robert R. Reynolds, D., North Carolina, member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, before the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, January 11, 1933, in support of the French proposal for the League of Nations.

By ROBERT R. REYNOLDS
U. S. Senator from North Carolina

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (INS)—There was a time when John Bull said "boo" and the whole world shivered. That time has long since passed, because Hitler and Mussolini have brought the great John Bull to his knees and the British Empire is more imperilled today than ever before in history.

The great majority of the people of this country are now in a state of confusion and uncertainty. They are asking the question: "What is the meaning of this?" They are asking the question: "What is the meaning of this?" They are asking the question: "What is the meaning of this?"

I know that as a result of the French proposal, we will endeavor and in all probability get ourselves into a position which will be a great advantage to us. I know that as a result of the French proposal, we will endeavor and in all probability get ourselves into a position which will be a great advantage to us.

It may be recalled that in 1931, Anthony Quinn tried to get the United States to join Great Britain in entering the oil embargo against Italy at the climax of the Abyssinian crisis, but the United States refused to join in entering such sanctions.

It will also be recalled that in 1931, Great Britain was vigorously condemning Italy for its conduct in Abyssinia, but we were silent. The League of Nations was established in 1919, but we have never joined it.

THERE NEED BE NO WAR

WITH PRIME MINISTER CHAMBERLAIN of England and Premier Mussolini of Italy in their long-awaited conference, the next few days in Europe will be crucial—almost as important as the days preceding the Munich accord.

As at Munich, where Europe came close to war, the discussions in Italy are concerned with issues between England and France and Italy which might lead to war.

There is no doubt, however, that England and France can come to a peaceful agreement with Italy. The only question is: Will they do so?

WE MUST REMEMBER that there is a great deal of justice to Italy's demands.

Italy was of vital importance to the allies in the World War.

If Italy had not entered the war on the side of the Allies soon after the beginning Germany and Austria would have scored a quick victory over England and France.

We know that now, and England and France knew it at the time.

They made all sorts of promises and written pledges to get Italy into the war to save their skins. But when the war was over they forgot Italy, very much as they forgot the United States.

They refused to pay their war debts to us, and they refused to make any very material territorial concessions to Italy.

England and France hogged the spoils of victory, although because of their own insufficiency or their inability to protect themselves they had very little right to hog them.

ITALY HAS NEVER been able to get the territorial concessions she deserved and which were promised with such liberality when England and France were afraid and granted with such parsimony when England and France felt themselves safe.

If England and France do justice to Italy now there will be no war.

If they do not, there may be. Premier Mussolini is not merely bluffing. He has the men and the planes and the strategic position.

It is to be hoped that England and France will have the good judgment to keep the peace by carrying out their war pledges. Everybody is anxious to have peace except the politicians who might profit by war.

ORDER PREVAILS

The Editor Says:—Boston's truck strike ended, pickets withdrawn, work and wages resumed. Food and supplies moving, everybody applauds the settlement and looks forward to a new era of industrial peace.

Abundant credit is due and certainly ought to go to Governor Saltonstall, whose personally voiced plea to more than two thousand union members was a powerful factor in breaking the seven-day deadlock.

Not a word of praise be denied the employers and striking employees, for it must be remembered that the happy conclusion was the result of the concessions by both sides.

WHEN THE CHOICE WAS BETWEEN VIOLENCE AND ORDER THEY IN A MANNER FUNDAMENTALLY AMERICAN, CHOSE ORDER.

The only regret is that the controversy could not have been settled SOONER, without loss of employment to the participating men, damage to employers or harm to workers in industries not directly concerned.

NEW HAMPSHIRE finds a new and agreeable way to deal with its Representatives and Senators who do not come from the State. Legislators work laws, not men. The State is not a law-making machine. "No work no pay" is the motto. But the State is not a law-making machine. "No work no pay" is the motto. But the State is not a law-making machine. "No work no pay" is the motto.

Every body in our neighbor State hopes so, but hardly expects it. To curtail membership, some legislators would have to vote themselves out of jobs.

Rare indeed is the modern office-holder who would think of doing that.

MAN'S BEST FRIEND is a dog, philosophers and commentators, including our own Edwin C. Hill, have observed. Three Boston dogs seem to prove it.

We refer to the canine companions of the late blind street singer, John D. Silva, known for years to thousands of Bostonians as the man who sat in all weathers on a bench in theater district doorways.

When Sightless John died this week in City Hospital, his dogs mourned a southern vigil at the basement dwelling he had called home. The combined efforts of patrolmen, Animal Rescue League employees and neighbors failed to remove the animals. Their allegiance was to their master, TO HIM ONLY.

Thus, readily, we may understand why in all ages, in peace and war, in prosperity and privation, the dog has been man's most favored.

WAR ON CRIME receives new encouragement in Middlesex County, where District Attorney Robert F. Bradford has won the support of 54 cities and towns:

"I want you to know that the police are to be backed up to the limit from now on in Middlesex, and that we are here as your lawyers ready to assist you in any way. There will be NO DISPOSITION of criminal cases in the future without notification and consultation with the police who have worked on them."

If this program is continued, without change, there will be more reality, less pretense, in the enforcement of law.

Massachusetts people are weary of seeing criminal cases "thrown out the window." It is time all officials declared a moral.

The Human Side of the News

The Senate's Colorful "Whip"

By EDWIN C. HILL

IN AN AGE of disturbing change and uncertainty, as we begin feeling out a new year, there is reassurance in at least one continuing phenomenon of our national life. That is Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, chosen majority whip of the Senate, a leader in the organization of the new Congress.

If Senator Lewis were to pass from public life, or if there should be in any way an abatement of his sartorial splendor, or any sag into the slack or casual in his raiment, such yielding would be indeed disquieting, a portent of that erosive change which in time takes the stoutest of citadels.

But there is NO SUCH YIELDING. Here is Senator Lewis again, with new and splendid waistcoats and high collars, still the Distinguished Gentleman of Washington who is a forceful and inspiring figure. He is a man of high spirit and romantic endeavor. We have had mattress beards which were merely an economical substitute for a no-kick or a muffer; we have had various stereotypes of Dunderbergs, gobsies and underslung or looping Victorian effects; we have had the massive beards of the prophets, suitable for portentous wagging imposing judicial beards—but they have all been decorative, all slavishly typed and stylized.

Never before have we had a genuinely sui generis beard like that of Ham Lewis, with a permanent wave, a suffusion of unique color and a flourish.

COLOR AND FLOURISH are not as easily come by in a democracy as in the Graustark kingdoms, great and small. They are, however, necessary and important ingredients in any great collective endeavor such as ours.

If Senator Lewis were merely a showpiece, there would be no meaningful symbolism in his dress or his beard. But he is a great deal more than that, an astute and diligent legislator, and, more pertinently, a liaison between the drab devices of latter-day government and the best amenities, dignities and classical affluence of the founding fathers.

That I believe is important. When we look at the present, and for many years thereafter, England, we see a man of the future.

But the future is not a static thing. It is a process. It is a process of change. It is a process of growth. It is a process of development. It is a process of evolution. It is a process of progress.

and precepts of our pantheon of the great.

ANOTHER INTERESTING PERSON! The one-woman stage play returns to the New York theater. Quite alone and unassisted, an entire "case" in her amazing versatility, she enacts a one-act sketch of half a dozen personae and makes every individual personality as real as you have ever seen in a play.

It is the illusion created by the genius of Miss Ruth Draper. "Phyllis," a one-woman play, is a masterpiece of versatility. It is a play of a woman's life, a woman's story, a woman's world.

In this familiar sketch she plays with no aid except that afforded by her amazing change of voice, tones and facial expressions, the secretary, the employer, the employers' wife and various other characters related to the little comedy.

Miss Draper is our American Duchess of Driller.

'BUGS' BAER SAYS:

WE HAD a parlor game started last summer off the Isle of Capri, but it got lost somewhere in the shuffle or the deal. Paulo, the guide, launched it when our small boat started bobbing for apples and the family waited on the stem. Paulo sat there as the freshman class at West Point.

WHEN WE ASKED Paulo if he ever got sick, he negated on the alkaline side. His reason for his sales resistance to ocean ailments was that he had a cat's ironic stumblage. As Paulo had been with us through Switzerland and France, we knew that Paulo's cat's ironic stumblage meant a cast-iron stomach.

IN TRANSLATING Paulo's dialect, you put two and two together in the manner of a rare gift.

Then you abstracted the result from the answer, strained it through a fine bottom chair and put it on your mental windowsill to cool. We're not going to give you any more than one of Paulo's laryngeal puzzles on the theory that one piece of French pastry is superior to an acre of cream puffs.

PAULO TOPPED himself when he said, "Thattaa Viv." We thought Paulo was introducing us to his best girl. But when we followed his finger to the winning point we saw a cone-shaped object with smoke browsing out of the top. So we knew that Viv was Vesuvius.

THAT WAS the first time the dreaded furnace had received the accolade of the diminutive. From then on it was "Viv la Vesuvius" with us.

OUR OLD MAN had everything you could think of. He was fairly well versed in the classics. He could quote you by the yard from Shakespeare and Milton.

He was familiar with Rousseau and Plutarch and Rabelais and Homer and Balzac and Hugo and Dickens. He read all kinds of writers. He said himself his mind was a regular ragbag of literary stuff. He read dime novels and poetry and magazines and newspapers.

He said he judged he must have read billions of words though whenever he went into the public library back in our old home town of Pueblo and looked around at the shelves loaded with books he could see that with all his reading he had little more than nibbled at the world's output of words.

HE SAID he had often reflected that of all he had read he had found more comfort in just 117 words than in all the rest put together. He said those words were the words of the Twenty-Third Psalm. He said he guessed that those words expressive of David's confidence in God's grace were the most beautiful words ever written.

He said certainly they were the most comforting to a fellow when he was distressed in spirit. He said he had known a lot of trouble in his day—sickness and poverty and everything else, and that he had never failed to find spiritual comfort in those words.

When death came to his house and when he thought there could be no solace left for him in this world, he found his spiritual refuge in that beautiful passage. He said that however dark the night of his despair it always brought the light to him when he recited to himself:

"The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want."

"He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; He leadeth me beside the still waters."

"He restoreth my soul; He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake."

"Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for Thou art with me; Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me."

"Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies; Thou anonnest my head with oil; my cup runneth over."

"Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

OUR OLD MAN said he realized that there were many other beautiful passages in the Bible. He said probably other men would differ with him in his opinion that the Twenty-Third Psalm was the most beautiful of all, and that he was not of a mind to debate the matter with them.

Someone asked him what he thought was the most beautiful sentence in the Psalm and our old man said he had often pondered that very question himself. He said it was so beautiful in its entirety that it was difficult to pick out a single sentence or thought as the most beautiful of all but that he believed it was the very first line:

"The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want."

THIS YEAR the Sarah Lawrence annual benefit parties are going to be a little different from the ones of the past. The annual Valentine's Dance, which has been a tradition for many years, will be given by the Junior Aid League at the Hotel Statler. The annual Gardenia Ball, which has been a tradition for many years, will be given by the Junior Aid League at the Hotel Statler. The annual Gardenia Ball, which has been a tradition for many years, will be given by the Junior Aid League at the Hotel Statler.

These annual benefit parties for the Sarah Lawrence scholarship fund are distinguished for being among the best managed dances in town. Polly Cutter undertook the responsibilities of chairman for the first one, and both she and Mrs. Louis McCannan, who managed last year's party, did such a successful job that Barbara Fulton, this year's chairman, has a lot to live up to.

Barbara is starting the ball rolling by giving a tea for her committee members next Wednesday at 101 Chestnut street. Polly Cutter and Mrs. McCannan are also serving on the committee, together with Mrs. John F. Garfield, Alice Ward, Helen Dean, Jane Powers, Mrs. Albert Nickerson and Anne Peterson, one of the younger set.

Also getting their heads together to make the tea a success are Mrs. Horace G. Crockett, Jr., Mrs. M. E. Shaw and Mrs. William S. Taylor, Joan Sargent and Miss Bessen. And then...

Speaking of Valentines... As you may have checked and found hooked on his helter-skelter names of Sam Cabot... and what is the announcement which Gini Snigley has finally won her parents' consent to make?...

DEBUTANTE ACTIVITIES will take a new lease on life as soon as Harvard mid-years are over. Pat McKean's winter sports house party will provide thrilling diversion the week-end of February 4 and will be followed almost immediately by two parties one for Elizabeth Fish at The Country Club, and the house party for one hundred guests which Ex-Governor and Mrs. Alvan T. Fuller are giving in honor of their niece, Hope Halsey on February 9.

THE AVERY LECTURE series for the benefit of the Children's Hospital has outgrown its original headquarters at the Statler and moved over to the Copley-Plaza ballroom where the remaining lectures this season will be held. Tomorrow, Miss Avery's subject will be "France." Four others have been chosen to take charge of the doors—Miss Winifred Cunningham, Mrs. Arthur W. Allen, Miss Virginia Stone and Mrs. Thomas S. Waffles Make Excellent Company Snack

By MARTHA TEE

Many business men find the time of feeding guests during the winter months is a serious waffle. Waffles are the perfect business meal or snack and part of the interest in them is increasing steadily.

Waffles seem to be well liked by everyone and we remember, during this time of year, that from the time the party found Mr. Montgomery who said that he had the recipe to tell them up. Perhaps, then, failed to realize how popular we were, as to have a recipe for these gustatory pleasure.

An electric waffle iron equipped with a heavy rubber sole is the most satisfactory device for cooking waffles. When the iron is hot and when steam is rising from the bottom of the iron, the waffle should be placed in and cooked until it is brown and crisp and ready to be served with a fork.

There is a recipe for a new waffle, the "Honey Waffle," for the first time in the history of the waffle. It is a new recipe for a new waffle, the "Honey Waffle," for the first time in the history of the waffle.

Children Object To 2d Marriage

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am 45 years of age and a widow. My husband has been dead for fifteen years, and I have a son of 22 and a daughter of 18. When my husband died I went back to teaching school, and also did my own housework. I educated both of my children, and they have very good jobs and are independent. Now, I know a very fine man who wants to marry me. He has been devoted to me for several years and I have patiently waited until I was free to marry. But the children object and are making a terrible fuss because I want to find a companion for my old age. I'm so miserable about it, and come to you for advice.

WIDOW.
Thoughtless, your children are in the habit of making a fuss when they don't get what they want. Well, don't you always do right ahead and do what you think best? Do that now. Nothing is more selfish than such an attitude on the part of grown children is a mother's or father's second marriage.

And those days when the Babe—old No. 3—arched his copyrighted brows beyond the outfield screens and traipsed on his spaghetti legs round the bases. How you would curl the corners of your lips in a sleepy snarl at his over-mustache an eighth-inch quirk, but otherwise maintain your irrefragable calm! Remember?

BUT MOSTLY I LIKE TO REMEMBER YOUR Feasts of the Signing. I can't think of the training seasons when you decided the time was just for the big, dramatic scene of placing Babe under center. And just the evening before it was to come off, you had Ed Barrow give notice on the newsmen who swarmed thickly about the clubhouse, giving camp's crisply formal announcements which usually began with "Jacob Ruppert invites you to be present at the Hotel

The setting was perfect and the catering, mostly in the medium of fluids, was always satisfying to the army of news and picture men, who as a group are very sensitive to the quality of free cuisine. Batteries of independent lights were set up to make sure that every little detail, when and whenever, was captured.

Several days later, the tangled underfoot and possible electric hazards were cleared up on the lush lawns to the east, every whisper of a breeze rippled seaward to effect that after long arbitration the Yankee officer and Mr. Rusk had reached a satisfactory compromise. And the native godhead of Pimpacrow-the-Bay was scattered on big top tulle, useless for anything. And what I mean is they were taken in one evening's work, the guests—not in clusters of fairs and throngs, but in a manner which has left the women's arm and leg, like the wrists so just about the neck, had to arbitrate, too, before extricating their loaded fists from the same box.

WELL, IT WAS FUN! And shortly before ten o'clock, a murmur of voices and a feeling of tension prevailed that the guests were about to arrive. In they came, through the columns of the big dining hall and through the colonnade. And there they sat, Ross presiding to the left of the stage, the signature to a contract of marriage was a bright spot of the scene, while the Colonel, seated farthest right, and

There were happy days in the sunny South that will come no more. They belong to a baseball era created by a lonely little man who craved companionship and found it by making crowds happy—The Ruth and Lippert era which founded the game's prosperity. The day when we lose either man will become a little grayer.

has grown into a robust adult valued at more than $100,000. After Ruppert moved into command the Yankees won 110 percents and seven World Series.

The all-time height in major league baseball salary was reached in 1939 when Ruppert paid Babe Ruth, the old home run king, $80,000 for a season's work as an outfielder.

The Babe, who was the greatest attraction the sport has ever known, was again rewarded with $80,000 the following year.

It is an amazing coincidence that Babe Ruth, a name to be coupled with Ripper's forevermore in baseball history, should have received a hospital examination of his heart at the moment when his former employer's plagues reached a critical place.

Refused Million For Browns

By the Associated Press

THE BOSTON RED SOX turned down an offer of $1,000,000 for the services of St. Louis Browns merely because he didn't like the guy who had the dough. And that's a fact.

The offer was so good that it was almost too good to be true. The Browns, who had been in the club for a half year, had been paid $100,000 for the season. Sox Bagby Happy; Salary Doubled

ATLANTA, Jan. 12 (AP)—Young Jim Bagby, son of the famous old Cleveland pitcher, was pumping gasoline at the Bagby station today when the subject of baseball was broached, and the Boston Red Sox rookie had all the answers condensed.

"I am going to win just as many as I can, and that's all I can promise," said the major league freshman as he hung a hose back on a red tank.

"I'm going to do my best and hope that'll be better than last year."

NOT 23 YET

The youngster may never feel off 23 victories, as did Jim, Sr., with the Cleveland Indians in 1929, but the latest Bagby to take up professional baseball started auspiciously with 15 victories and 11 defeats in his freshman debut.

Young Bagby, who will not become 23 years old until summer, got a big assignment last spring when Manager Joe Cronin selected him to oppose Red Sox pitcher, and the Boston New York Yankees on June 17.

Jim, Sr., who pitched 8 to 4 in 1929, was a pitcher in the sixth inning.

"I'm 10 pounds heavier than I was last winter," remarked Jim, Jr., "and I'm tall enough to handle that without being slowed down."

"At 145 pounds, I feel just as fast on my feet, and I believe that added weight will give me more pitching speed."

NEEDS CONTROL
Salary has been no bother to him. He signed his 1939 contract before leaving Boston and admitted unhesitatingly that he was satisfied "because they more than doubled my salary."

"All I need now," he said, "is control and ability to play smart in the pinches. I think my second year will help me along that line."

Braddock's Dad Seeks Relief

NORTH BERGEN, N. J., Jan. 12 (INS)—Joseph Braddock, Sr., 78, of North Bergen, the father of James J. Braddock, former heavy-weight boxing champion of the world, has made an application for relief on the grounds of destitution, Louis Reimann, overseer of the poor, disclosed today.

Reimann said he will attempt to discuss the case with Braddock's five sons and expressed belief they will arrange to care for their father. The elder Braddock did not request aid from his family, according to Reimann.

Jim, who earned $500,000 during his brief reign as champ, declared he will not permit his father to go on relief.

Breaks Candlepin Record

Herbert Cohen, 32-year-old Winthrop citizen, was the proud possessor today of a new unofficial three-string candlepin mark of 425 pins.

The New England Bowling Association recognizes the three-string total of 21 pins rolled by H. Roper, at Eastport, Me., 16 years ago, as the present official record.

147 FIRST STRING

Herbie, a member of the Winthrop Bowling League, was bowling on the Blues against the Browns in their weekly tournament at the Community alleys.

Starting off with a bang, he topped the maple slat for 143 score in his first string.

As word flashed around of his nice opening mark, other members of the club gathered around to watch the remaining two strings.

Spares, strikes, tens, etc. teamed together to give Cohen 147 for his second string. By this time the alleys were a mass of cheering fans and both sides were lined deep with spectators as Herbie stepped to foul line for his third string.

Coolly and without hesitation he rolled box after box with the deadly accuracy of a marksmen and when the tenth was completed, 135 pins was his grand total. Added to 143 and 147 it gave Herbert a net of 425 for the three strings.

TO BE GIVEN CUP

Members of the club have decided to present the new champion with a special cup at the close of the bowling season.

Cohen's mark may not be recognized as official by the Bowling Association because of technical details but official or unofficial, 425 pins for three strings is bowling.

Chiminello Leads

Emery in Title Match

With a 115 average for the first 16 strings, Francis Chiminello, Quincy, today held a lead in defense of his world champion bowling championship over Fred Emery, Athol. It was the half-way mark of a 20-string tournament.

Chiminello bowled a 11500 total for 16 strings against 131 for Emery. At one point, Emery was 35 pins behind, but in the last three strings the Athol bowler chalked up 178, 115 and 145 to cut the lead.

They play the final 10 strings at Athol next Saturday. Several months ago the pair bowled a championship tournament which ended in a 20-string tie of 2240.

Dempsey won the first fall in 4:35 with a top body press, and Bruno was awarded the second when Dempsey was counted out in 6:10.

Dempsey was unable to continue after 5:54 of the third stanza and Bruno was declared the winner.

King-Kong Frankenstein pinned Jack Marshall in 24:14, with a body press, Sandy MacDonald won over Pete Janco, in 13:15 on disqualification, the Syrian Kid pinned Red Roberts in 18:55, with a body press, George Carpenter and Tiger Rothus wrestled a 20-minute draw, and Dan Cady and Les Ryan did the same in 20 minutes.

8000 Acclaim Skate Queens In Ice Follies

The constant cry of a lone balcony patron for "more" embraced the feelings of the entire gallery at the Garden last night as Ice Follies of 1939 made its debut to an appreciative audience of over 8000.

From the start of the overture to the grand finale by the entire company, encores were as frequent as benches on the Common—even becoming exhaustingly plentiful as the show progressed.

Nineteen acts, all too entertaining to single out one feature, comprised the grandest ice frolic ever seen in Boston and this fact was well attested to by the crowds filling out completely delighted.

Mixing comedy with the finest of figure skating and a chorus that would put the best in any nightclub to shame, the Follies more than lived up to their advance publicity and should sell out the house for the remainder of the local stand.

ACROBATS STEAL SHOW

Shipstead and Johnson's famed comedy act and acrobatic antics came close to stealing the show, but the chorus follow up in a "Scotch Lassies" affair was equally as startling.

Evelyn Chandler, queen of the ice, turned jitterbug in one of her showings, "tricked" her way off the frozen surface in an encore, waited tunefully with her partner, Bruce Mapes, then concluded her performance with a lively display of figure skating.

EHRRHARDT SHINES

Bess Ehrhardt's pretty prancing played its part in making the show the grand spectacle that it was as did all of the entertainers. Les Hamilton, McGowan and Mack, Idi Papes and Karl Zwick, the McKellen Brothers and Valerie Fink and LeVernie Bushie in particular.

Queen Is Witty

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Jan. 12 (AP)—Lantern-Jawed John Brennan, 200-pound varsity football player and wrestler, was chosen "Queen" of the University of Michigan ice carnival in a campus outbreak of monkshining today.

The "Sinner" six in charge of the poll was vague about the figures but said Brennan had just nosed out Marian Phillips, port freshman co-ed who recently broke into print with 86 reasons why men give her "a pain in the neck."

Brennan himself started a campus battle two years ago by observing that "four out of five women are pretty, and the fifth comes to Michigan."

Tiger Sextet Has Fine Record

Coach Clark Hodder's Crimson sextet will face a team of seasoned veterans when they match their speed and skill with the Princeton Tigers at the Boston Arena next Saturday evening.

The New Jersey team will ice two local boys on their starting wings in the persons of Flamingham Tom Barnicle and Mark Robbaine of Pittsfield.

This year's Princeton team has a very fine record behind it as they come to Boston. The Vaughtans have defeated B. U. 13-2 and pummed the B. C. Eagles nine back to the tune of 13-2. They also hold decisions over the U. of Montreal 9-3; Army 2-0; St. Nick's 3-1 and defeated Harvard twice by 3-2 and 3-1. The only defeats marring their record are a 1-0 loss to McGill, a 4-1 defeat by Harvard and a 4-2 beating at the hands of the St. Nick's.

Britain Bids $40,000 for Armstrong

By JACK CONWAY

Henry Armstrong today received an offer of $40,000 to defend his title as world welterweight champion against Ernie Roderick of Liverpool in a London ring.

The offer to Armstrong was cabled from England by Johnny Beat, London promoter, and was received in this city by Johnny Rogers. The latter immediately sent it to Eddie Mead, manager of Armstrong.

Rogers has been acting as Best's American representative in an effort to get Armstrong to go to England.

Rogers is also trying to get John Henry Lewis to go to England to box Len Harvey. If Lewis loses to Joe Lewis in their world's heavyweight championship bout in New York on January 25, he may accept the English offer.

Lewis is still recognized as world's light heavyweight champion in England, and if he meets Len Harvey the match will be billed as a championship affair.

Boston has been familiar with England, and it is the opinion of Rogers and Beat that Armstrong and Lewis would prove top attractions if they were to box in London.

Casey, Shadow Drill in Gym

Both Steve (Crusher) Casey, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, and The Shadow, mysterious masked challenger for the title, will start public training today for their clash next Thursday night at the Garden.

The mighty Crusher, who is fit and ready and just aching to wrap his huge hands around the hooded grappler and get a little revenge for the latter's massacre of Steve's brother Jim, will train at 1 p. m. at Kelley and Hayes Gym with at least two training mates.

The Shadow, with his corps of assistants, will work out at Buckley's gym at 3 p. m. Both men plan to continue daily sessions until the day before the bout.

Although he signed the bout so easily he himself was surprised. Promoter Paul Bowser had a little unexpected trouble from the Casey encampment late yesterday, when Steve made queries about the referee.

"Some of these referees let The Shadow do about what he wants," said Steve. "There are rules to be enforced, and I want them enforced. I'll have none of the referees who let him break every rule in the book."

Bowser promised to get together with Steve within a few days and select a referee that will be favorable to all concerned.

Sutherland Named All-Star Coach

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—Jock Sutherland, the silent, successful coach of Pittsburgh's football team for the last 15 years, will coach the Eastern College All Stars of 1939 for the New York Herald-Tribune's fresh air fund game against the world professional champions, the New York Giants.

Stanley Woodward, director of the game and sports editor of the paper, made the announcement that Jock, best familiarly known as Dr. John Bain Sutherland, would pick up where Andy Kerr of Colgate left off.

Johnny Shkor to Excess Weight Is Make Home Here Harmful to Ruth

By JACK CONWAY

JOHN SHKOR, 18-year-old Baltimore amateur heavy-weight who made such a sensational hit as he lost a close decision to Tony Ferry of Fall River in the heavyweight final of the Hearst All-America tournament, will make Boston his home in future . . . He has cast his pugilistic fortunes with Johnny Buckley who piloted Jack Sharkey to the heavyweight championship.

"I have only had six amateur bouts, but love to fight," Shkor told me . . . "My father and mother were born in Russia and are making their home in Baltimore where I was born . . . I am six feet four inches tall and weigh 195 pounds . . . I intend to remain in the ranks of the amateurs until I have gained more ring experience . . . I am still putting on weight, and will probably scale 210 pounds inside of two years."

Shkor proved he was a puncher in his bout with Ferry . . . As Shkor gains experience, he will improve in his boxing, and should go a long ways up the flistic ladder.

With the boxing game picking up in local interest once more, ring stars are locating here . . . Henry Chmielewski, Polish middleweight, intends to campaign out of Boston, and has signed Harry Kelley as his trainer . . . Kelley declares Chmielewski is the fastest puncher he has seen in recent years . . . Sam McQuade, former right eye to Jimmy Johnston as matchmaker of the New York Garden, writes he has Mohamed Fahmy, Egyptian and Oriental middleweight champion, under contract . . . It is possible Chmielewski and Fahmy may later collide in a Boston ring.

Babe Ruth and Excess Weight

BABE RUTH'S heart condition is due to excess weight more than to the fact he was active in athletics . . . Babe was always a tremendous eater, and his weight frequently passed the 260 mark . . . The home run king would then go through a severe physical training, and would tear some of the extra poundage from his huge frame.

Back in the days when Babe played for the Red Sox he scaled 190 pounds . . . I can remember one occasion at Tampa, Fla., 20 years ago, when Babe and myself both stepped on the scales, and they registered exactly 190 pounds for each of us . . . I am now only eight pounds above that notch, but Ruth has not been so fortunate in keeping down the size of his waist line.

Doctors will tell you that people past 40 years of age cannot carry extra weight without it being a dangerous tax on the heart . . . The greatest strain on the heart occurs during the night when heavy layers of fat interfere with the normal functioning of the heart . . . In recent years, Babe has eliminated late eating, and this has been helpful to his general health . . . Back in the carefree days of Ruth's reckless youth, the famous slugger would often eat two orders of roast beef or a steak just as a snack before he turned in for the night.

As a young ball player, Ruth always did the things in life he wished to do . . . It was not until after his second marriage that the Babe began to live regularly . . . He eliminated unwise eating, and also saved his money . . . While in active athletics, Ruth was able to keep his weight down to reasonable figures, but since getting out of the daily grind of baseball, Ruth has packed on much excess poundage . . . Last Summer when coach for the Dodgers, Ruth played a few innings in some exhibition games, but found he was carrying too much weight to run the bases.

Ruth Still Idol With Fans

BASEBALL FANS everywhere are rooting for Ruth to regain his full health . . . I once referred to Babe as the golden-hearted bad boy of baseball . . . That was during the period he was having difficulties with baseball authorities . . . It is such types that have made the national pastime so popular . . . Joe Cronin and Casey Stengel would each like to be able to sign a Ruth type as a ball player and as an individual even though he occasionally kicked a few rules out the window.

At the height of his baseball fame, Ruth received a salary of $30,000 a year, and earned $30,000 more in extras . . . He spent this money in lavish living and at race tracks . . . Late in his career Ruth saved a large part of his salary and all of the money he made apart from his baseball activities, and the income from this money now gives Ruth a comfortable living.

Random Shots at Target

STEVE MAHONEY says the Argonne A. A. has opened offices at No. 25 Huntington Avenue . . . The club's first show will be at Mechanics Building on January 19 when Bob Pastor will clash with Tiger Warrenton . . . There is very little excuse for Max Schmeling's ring comeback other than the fact the German is anxious to get some more American money . . . Schmeling didn't show any ring form in his last bout with Joe Louis that warrants him remaining in the boxing game . . . Father Time caught up with Schmeling before Louis' punches did.

30 Strong

R. I. Club In Silver Skates Fete

By WALTER KILEY

When it comes to organization and interest as a body in the sport of speed skating, there's no more active group in the East than the Rhode Island Skating Club of Providence, which in one large batch today entered more than 30 of its male and female members in the Silver Skates Derby.

Included on the roster of R. I. S. C. members who are coming for the annual major Boston American Sunday Advertiser classic, to be held at Boston Garden a week from Sunday afternoon, are youngsters all the way up from tiny little Bobby Hall of Providence, aged seven.

This outfit has played a most conspicuous role in each of the three previously held Silver Skates Derbies, several past championships wending their way back to Providence.

Among today's R. I. S. C. entries are Bobby and Lew Hall, Jr., aged 7 and 9, respectively; Florence Des Roches, 14; Buddy Gifford, 11; Frank Zagroski, 22; Jack Maxwell, 19; Frank Scully, 19; William Donaldson, Jr., 22; John Tierney, 12; Howard Johnson, 10; Richard Littlefield, 12; Fredric Johnson, 17; Daniel Brown, 15; Lloyd Des Roches, 16; Ernest Graham, 15; Ella Walsh, 16; Helen Mallonby, 20; Wilfred Howard, 20; Bill Spaccagna, 19.

Other entries which came in today's mail were from Nathan Litofsky, 22, Garden street; Bernard Cervizzi, Jr., 12, East Boston; Bernard E. McCourt, 11, Cambridge; Mariola Langos, 19, St. Germaine street; John Barry, 13, Dorchester; William Carey, 13, Dorchester; Norman Leger, 13, Fitchburg; Fredrick Mousally, 17, Hudson street, Boston.

HAZEL TO PERFORM

Augmenting the grand exhibition of the afternoon, the figure skating performance by lovely Hazel Franklin, 13-year-old blonde and demure London sensation, will be several other highlight acts.

Among them is the reappearance of the "Daffy Trio," Surette and Joe Lewis, Greater Boston boys who were brought to public attention in past Silver Skates events in Boston and since have won acclaim in ice pageants throughout the East.

Cooke Bolsters Game For Cup Berth Bid

ORLANDO, Fla., Jan. 12 (AP)—Elwood Cooke, the Portland, Ore., tennis star whose national ranking jumped from 28th to seventh in 1938, is rebuilding his strokes hoping to get a try at the national singles, the Davis Cup team and the Wimbledon contests.

"The game I had was good enough to let me beat some of the big boys once in a while," said the famed 34-year-old player, "but I want something more substantial now."

Cooke's "new" game is a forcing one. It's hammer-hammer-hammer at your opponent until he melts.

He expressed a desire to return to the West Coast as soon as possible.

"Concrete courts are universal in California, and they undoubtedly are the great reason why California produces the outstanding players," he said.

"Clay slows the ball tremendously, throwing your game off and automatically forcing you to slow up."
